

new undergraduate courses in disability studies

NEW! spring 2012

JUS 294 / SST 294 / WST 294

Disability, Justice and Advocacy

Designed to teach the overarching history of the disability rights movement and how it is similar and different from other civil right movements, this course will examine how policies and activism are interconnected within this movement, in addition to looking at other human categories related to disabilities such as gender, sexuality, race and socio-economic status.

JUS 294 (25564) / SST 294 (25562) / WST 591 (26308)

Online (iCourse); Instructor: Annie Goldsand

WST 394

Gender and Disability

What is a normal body? an abnormal body? Why are some bodies medicalized? How are disabled bodies represented in popular culture? This course will employ critical gender studies and feminist theory to explore the experiences, history, and theory of disability. We'll examine how disability, like gender, is a historical, cultural, and social construction and explore how it intersects with gender, class, race, and sexuality.

WST 394 (15855)

T, TH 3 - 4:15 p.m., SS 211; Instructor: Michelle Stuckey